I met Tracy in Chicago,1990. She quickly immersed herself in our group of friends, as if she had been with us our whole lives. She was filled with the energy of love in friendship and life. When I had to move to NYC, she introduced me to Lee Hunt and Julie Jordan. Because of Tracy, I had a place to stay and get acclimated to the city. And a year later, I met Michael in NYC. 5 years later, Michael and I wed. If my path had not crossed with Tracy, I am sure that my life would have been so different than it is today.It has been many years since I had seen Tracy, but I have to let the Frank family know that I owe a great deal of how my life's path has taken me thus far , due to Tracy. I thank you Tracy for your laughter, love of life and accepting friendship. Thank you for sharing your friends. I have some wonderful New York friends because of you and a husband and children that may never have happened, had our paths never crossed in Chicago. Your willingness to help a friend in need was a gift from God. Your were a natural in all that you did. You were a genuine soul. I feel blessed to have known you.I know that one day our paths shall cross again later in heaven, and I will give you my heartfelt hug then. Until then, I shall miss you in memory.xoxGemma Riggio-BeresheimHighland Park, Illinois

Mr Frank and Bradley. My name is Glen Caruso and I was friends with Tracy. I live in Atlanta. We both sold social media advertising. I met her 12 years ago through our involvement in American Marketing Association. What a wonderful, kind, smart, funny, bubbly and generous woman your daughter and sister was. Loved by so, so many in the community. I posted about her passing in my LinkedIn profile. So many have responded to me already. Many people here are very sad at her passing. I'm sure this is a devastating loss for your family. She was too young. She left us too, too early. She was a good human being. Know that there are, honestly, hundreds of people who will be impacted by Tracy's death. She brightened the lives and hearts of so many. Such a wonderful friend and such a terrific business person. She helped me with my business and we both had a lot of great conversations and laughs. She was just a pleasure to be around. Just a shining light of happiness and warmth. She will be so missed and be aware that my prayers and thoughts are with you at this time of sorrow. I know that Tracy is with your wife and mother now. She loved her dearly and spoke so fondly of both of you, too. She loved each of you very, very much. She was proud of you. Her face lit up when she talked about each of you. I wanted you two to know that. My condolences to your family. I will pray very hard for Tracy and you. - Glen Caruso glen@thedigitalcurators.com
